FUN FACTS

Anne Angermeir

On July 4th, 1976, I was 14 and represented the great State of South Carolina as Miss Yankee Doodle Dandy. As a small town girl from Union, South Carolina, my career goal in elementary school was to become a cheerleader. I grew up in Union when the town was booming due to the textile industry. In high school, I told my dad I wanted to major in Mortuary Science. He thought I was nuts, but I was very serious. Applying make-up was important to me and only the dead were patient enough as subjects. My Dad said that he would not pay for such a ridiculous major. Russell Floyd should be forever grateful. After attending USC Union, USC in Columbia, and USC Upstate, I realized that a transfer was needed because I am a Clemson fan. That was the problem all along, not the hated nursing major my dad tried to force on me. I transferred to Converse College and it was perfect! I was happy Converse did not have a nursing curriculum. My dad was happy because they did not offer embalming. If that was not enough, their football team did not interfere with the Tigers. I majored in Business Administration. My first full time job was with Harley Bag that was soon purchased by Union Camp Corporation. I've worked for the Upstate Workforce Investment Board for 16 years. I love my job, but do not like the state agency bureaucracy. I'm sure they dislike me as much because I rock the boat often when they don't do what they are supposed to do. I cannot help it. I cannot stop. I will not stop. I quess I am a cheerleader of sorts. Cheering for local control, for businesses, for workers, and for the communities I serve. I was married to Mike Fesperman for 28 years and he is still a great friend. We never wanted children. Ingo and I have been married for over 4 years now. Can you believe he did not tell me that he had 7 kids until after I said, "I do"? He is so wonderful! Spartanburg is a fantastic place to live. I am in the very best Rotary Club ever established. Life is still good!

Next Rotary Social will be on December 2nd!!!
